

Nutrition Services

Teledigm Health, in partnership with Bryan Telemedicine, sets the industry standard in telemedicine, providing a deep bench of clinical staffing resources and technical support with a focus on innovation and sustainability.

Access to Clinical Registered Dietitians/Nutritionists

- Access to licensed registered dietitians with hospital experience who provide clinical support and oversight
- A trusted and convenient partnership, meeting the nutrition needs of patients and in compliance with regulatory requirements
- Registered Dietitian Nutritionists (RDNs) who are knowledgeable of local, state and federal regulations as well as the latest nutritional research
- RDNs can also consult with dietary managers to oversee food service operations for safety and sanitation in accordance with federal and state regulations
- Meets clinical documentation requirements for patient care
- Personable, quality care that puts patients and staff at ease

Hospital Challenges

- Availability of licensed registered dietitians
- Knowledge of federal and state regulations to maintain compliance for safety and quality in nutrition services
- Resources to incorporate nutrition therapy into patient care to improve outcomes
- Malnourished patients have poorer health outcomes such as longer lengths of stay and higher readmission rates

Malnutrition is a common problem

Over 50 percent of hospitalized patients are malnourished at admission.
